

Your people need more from your machines. Our people make the magic happen.

When it comes to your IT infrastructure, including your servers, desktops and storage, your people are looking for a solution to their most pressing problems. They're desperately overwhelmed with server sprawl, with thousands of servers taking up increasing space. They're urgently seeking ways to cut costs and waste, with servers consuming unfathomable amounts of power, cooling, and personnel time but only working at 18-20% of their capacity. They're anxious about their desktop machines and the agonizing processes associated with upgrades or trying new tools.

Our people are experts at providing the ultimate solution for these problems – virtualization. F3 helps your business optimize by collapsing your servers and desktops into virtual machines, in the process slashing maintenance costs, streamlining upkeep, and providing the ultimate in flexibility. Our deep experience with developing and implementing virtualized infrastructures means you receive your ideal, personal solution to help you do more with less. With virtualization through F3, you can:

SHRINK YOUR FOOTPRINT. Virtualized servers and desktops require only a fraction of the cooling and power needs of traditional systems. That means you cut costs, comply with local data center power regulations, and reduce your impact on the environment.

BOOST OPERATIONAL EFFICIENCY. Less space. Less downtime for migrations and upgrades. More power for your money. Virtualized systems can run on a few dozen machines rather than thousands, will run at 80-90% utilization, and will last far longer than today's machines. You get the proverbial bang for your buck.

EMPOWER YOUR PEOPLE. Virtualized systems are impressively flexible. Virtualization provides the ability to quickly provision new operating systems and environments in minutes. That means your people can experiment with tools to increase efficiency and run your business cost-effectively, with little risk and increased security.

With the power of virtualization through F3, you can transform your infrastructure to build business. With the power of our people, you can do it with confidence and captivating results. Contact us today to make the connection.
